

TRADE

Canada and EU Retaliate on Tariffs. Red States Will Suffer the Most.

By Joe Light Follow

March 12, 2025 1:22 pm EDT

...

Canada imposed tariffs on peanut butter, among other products, earlier this month. (JUSTIN SULLIVAN/GETTY IMAGES)

Canada and the European Union are punching back against President Donald Trump's tariffs, with new levies on American imports tailor-made to cause the most pain to Republican-leaning and swing states.

The European Union on Wednesday announced tariffs on $28 billion of imports from the U.S., including whiskey, beef, metals, and other products. Canada separately unveiled additional levies of its own, targeting more than $20 billion of U.S. imports.