

ECONOMICS

Consumer Sentiment Falls to Near-Record Lows. Why it's too Soon to Panic About Spending.

By Sabrina Escobar Follow

Nov 07, 2025 11:19 am EST

...

“While sentiment does matter, over the past few years, we’ve seen consumers spend irrespective of how they’re feeling about things,” said Mark Mathews, chief economist of the National Retail Federation, a trade group. “I personally like to think about the consumer as being sentimentally weak but fundamentally sound.”