

NEWSLETTERS • MARKETS P.M.

Stocks Fall on Inflation, War Worries

Plus, a utility megamerger that investors should buy into, and Super Micro's equity-raising plan doesn't impress

By Heard on the Street Staff
June 10, 2026 at 4:17 pm ET

...

U.S.-Iran tensions are escalating. Feeding market uncertainty, the U.S. retaliated against Iran for its downing of a U.S. helicopter Tuesday and President Trump vowed further attacks. Brent crude prices were up 1.8%.

NEWSLETTER SIGN-UP

Markets P.M.

Catch up on the day's most important markets moves, delivered after the closing bell.

Preview

Subscribe

Stocks fell. Against an increasingly strained geopolitical and economic backdrop, all major indexes ended lower. The tech-heavy Nasdaq, which has been hit by AI-trade worries in recent days, was down nearly 2%. The S&P 500 ended 1.6% lower. And the Dow Jones

Industrial Average fell 1.9%, losing 953 points to end at 49,919.